THE ADELE MARGULIES TRIO Coming to Slater Memorial Hall on Tuesday Evening, Jan. 14th.

The second number in the Slater hall musical course will take place Tuesday evening, Jan. 14th, on which occasion The Margulies Trio will be the attraction. This organization is no stranger to a Norwich audience, as it appeared here several years ago in the Slater hall musical course and met with an enthusiastic reception. The same celebrated artists compose the trio today. and it is because of this long associa-tion and because each member of the trio is a finished artist that it has attained such a remarkable perfection in their co-operation with each other, an exquisite balance of tone, and a unity of purpose that makes their playing of the very best sort of chamber music. The New York Evening Post thus comments upon a recent concert by this remarkable musical orin the andante grazioso; and in the great specially in the andante grazioso; and in the great special more ensemble players like her! Whenever one hears Mr. Lichtenberg, one wonders why he does not appear more frequently as soloist at our orchestral concerts. He is surely far superior in every way to the virtuosi usually inflicted on us; Kreisler or Ysaye could not have played better than he did last night. And as for Mr. Leo Schulz, he has only one rival among violincellists of this country. His playing, like that of his associates, was a continuous manner of the liquor interests, and the white slave traffic—have combined to defeat it because they, too, "fear and hate it." MARINDA C. BUTLER ROBINSON. Danielson, Jan. 7th.

Seats for the concert by The Margulies Trio are now on sale at the store of Geo. A. Davis. Admission $2. All seats reserved.

BREED THEATER.

First Genuine Pictures of Actual Balkan Warfare, in Pathe Weekly.

Foremost on the splendid bill at the Breed today is the Marvelous Pathe Weekly, with its countless series of interesting events from the world at large. Here is shown the first genuine views of the Balkan war, taken right on the firing line. There is no question as to whether the opposing armies mean business when this picture. ies mean business, when this picture is shown, for the air is filled with bursting shells, and cannon balls are seen ploughing through the foreground. scattering companies to right and left. The scenes are without an equal for speedy action and splendid soldiery, and they fairly teem with all that is thrilling, imbuing the audiences with the great enthusiasm that must dominate these domains of war. Plenty of other superbly presented scenes are presented on the Weekly, among those being the great $200,000 fire at Hoboken, which was discovered just at its tive to be on the spot almost immedi-Ately, thereby making it possible to becure practically an uninterrupted view of the disaster.

Mr. Maurice Costello appears in one of the choicest bits from picturedom, entitled The Night Before Christmas, a strongly pathetic story of real life, in which a destitute father steals a sum of money, with a jall sentence staring him in the face, in order that his child may see Santa Claus. There are several other big reels, and the whole bill is one of rare excellence.

UNCLE TOM'S CABIN.

"The survival of the fittest" is amply illustrated in the long life of Uncle Tom's Cabin, which has been before the public for more years than most of this paper's readers care to remember, That it will never die, but live on for-ever, seems an assured fact in so far as the Stetson company is concerned. This famous dramatic organization is due at the Davis theater this afternoon and evening in an entirely new and up-to-the-minute dress. For this rea-son Manager Washburn secured a cast of all stage favorites, each number having been selected for his or her special fitness for the respective parts. One of the big scenes is the Suwanee river by moonlight. By the aid of lately invented mechanical and electrical devices actual scenes for miles along the stream, made famous in song and story, are unfolded to the eye in all their mid-summer beauty.

Three Acts and Feature Films on Auditorium's Programme Today. Today the Auditorium resumes its ing" photoplays. The Bernhardt films were both an artistic and financial success, and negotiations are now on for the last of the Bernhardt series, the films of which are owned by Daniel Froh-

Graham, Copes and Kane, who are known in the metropolis as That Rathskeller Trio, are on today's bill, and their lively act is one that is absolutely new from start to finish. There is something about a good lively tune that when it is played on a banjo by an accomplished musician sets everyone's feet dancing, and this is just what The Alvinos will do when they start their act. This clever pair are both artists on the piano and banjo, and their selections show good taste and judgment.

LETTERS TO THE EDITOR

Fear and Hate It.

Mr. Editor: Many of our women are in doubt as to the wisdom of giving the vote to women believing that the foreign women would out-vote the natoreign women would out-vote the na-tive women. To any such doubters I commend the following statement by Mrs. A. S. G. Taylor of Connecticut: "Only 30 per cent, of our immigrants are women. To offset this there are 33,732,752 native born women in the United States, while the total of for-eign born men and women together is only 13,754,863. Can you not see why the ward politician is fighting woman suffrage?"

When we consider that the three worst elements in our country are strenuously fighting woman suffrage—the ward politician, the liquor trafficers, the white slave traders—we must acknowledge that the anti-suffragists are in vile company. Why are these evil influences fighting day and night to defeat votes for women and spending millions of dollars? To work hand ing millions of dollars? To work hand in hand with such corruption as the antis are is a fearful thing. They cannot realize what they are doing.

These workers of iniquity must rub their hands together in gleeful satisfaction every time they hear of an anti speaking against votes for women. I read recently of seven people riding in a second-class compartment, going from a suburb up to London to the theater. The subject of woman suf-frage was discussed while one well frage was discussed while one well dressed woman was a silent listener. A member of parliament remarked, 'I hear that it is the white slave traffic that is behind the suffrage business." "And so it is," said the silent woman. The member of parliament argued that the white slave traffic could be stopped by the laws and religion of England. The silent woman answered: "If you want to know what's the only thing that will stop the traffic Fil tell you. that will stop the traffic III tell you. Winter of 1889-90.

Mr. Editor: In The Bulletin of this Mr. Editor: In The Eulletin of this date reference is made to a mild win ier 22 years ago. This evidently refers to the winter of 1889190, as the winter of 22 years ago, that of 1890-91, gave a considerable amount of cold weather and snow. I personally know that the winter of 1889-90 was extremely mild. It frequently did not freeze at night. Hardly any ice was secured; only a very small quantity of 4 inch ice being cut in March Christmas day the mercury registered over mas day the mercury registered over 60 degrees.

statement, however, that less than three inches of snow fell during the entire winter is certainly an error, at least as regards the vicinity of Windham, Conn., where I then resided. On Dec. 14 there was a fall of six or ly mentioned, was unusually warm, less than the usual amount of ice be-ing harvested and not a day of good sleighing during the winter.

Most moral diseases come from minute and secret forces. Religious fanatic-isms, where probelieve the most idiotic things with a frenzy of self-giving, exactly resemble those "catch-ing" diseases that infect bodies. Those usual schedule of three acts, and the striking collabors of character, where best the market affords in original perfectly respectable people go off into the wildest perversions, are like as if they had been bitten by some septic mosquito. POETRY

THE LONELY ROOM.

Oh, lonely room, which late her pres-ence knew.

Her gracious presence, which makes bright the day.

And through the dreams of night moves like a ray

Of sunshine, when it flashes from the dew—

How bare you seem, today bereft of her! Yet from this chair her face shone out on me;
Here her hand rested, lying light and free—
That hand whose touch can all my pulses stir.

Oh, blessed room, which holds her memory yet!

Here is the window from which once looked she
At the same velvet grass, the flowes, the tree,
Before me now; henceforth my life is Set To the dear music of the words she When in my heart love's roseate morn-ing broke.

—Ninette M. Lowater, in the New York

MY TIMES ARE IN THY HAND,

My times are in Thy hand!

I know not what a day

Or e'en an hour may bring to me:
But I am safe while trusting Thee.
Though all things fade away.

All weakness, I

On Him rely

Who fixed the earth and spread starry sky.

—Christopher Newman Hall.

HELP FOR HERETIC HUNTERS. "I will write a new name upon their orcheads."

Would you know how with perfect art
To sift the sheep and -oats apart—
How to search deeply and detect
The very names of the Elect?
Then read the fare, for round and fair,
The Book of Life is written there.
Yes, more than Jovian Phidias wrought is carven in the hush of Thought.

So shut your Paul, your Augustine,
And all the books that come betweenAquinus, Calvin, tome by tome;
Shut Schleiermacher, shut Jorome,
Look on the face, for written there
God's final judgments are laid bare!
The name is on the forchead writ—
of all that with the scraphs sit—
Of all that stumble toward the Pit,
—Edwin Markham, in January Nau tilus.
